Six artists of Countryside Gallery are currently exhibiting their work in a special showing which will run through April 22. The show, which leans heavily toward the graphic arts, represents the work of the following juried members in Countryside's stable of artists. Donna Jaggard, of Chicago, whose media are etching and silk-acreen printing:

view, who combines etching and printmaking: R. Abels-Weil, of Wilmette, specializing is embossed print; Dorothy Bilder, of DeKalls, whose media is the serigraph; and Girts Purins, Chicago, exhibiting acrylic paintings. Mr. Parins also teaches an eve-ning class at Countryside on design, color, and spatial rela-tionships.

Irene McCartney, Mount Prospect, Countryside Art Center ssem sly a wood sculpture by Virginia Merritt Alvin. Six artists are cur w at Countryside Gallery, 407 N. Vall st., Arlington Heinhts.

How or why it happens, no one seems to know. There are a great many theories. The epublicans don't care about the theories. They just jump inport joy, since it works as it does. A Democrat moves from the city to the suburbs. The next day he's a Republican. We'll, maybe not the next day he's a Republican.

SOME PEOPLE say that a family that acquires a house with a driveway, a family room, and, sometimes, a fire-place become Repbulican. Some people say it's not that at all. They say it takes an automatic dishwasher, a patio and one and a half bathromas. Still others hold to the theory that it's carpeting, air conditioning and a new plano. No one seems to know for sure.

Computer makes math exciting

By Rick Lewis

Take a conglomeration of common, well known, every day devices such as light bulbs, wire, and electrical switches; put them all logether and attach to wood. With a few adjustments you have just made a small computer, which is programmed to add, multiply and subtract any two digit numbers fed into it.

The computer has been located in the learning center since January. Krueger said. "The kids come down, turn on the tape recorder with instructions and problems and they are all set."

"Even the kids who know the basics like to work with the computers," said Krueger. A template, one for each mathematical program, is placed over the answering board, which is made up of lights. The student listers to the recorder and hears the problem. After adjusting which knobs to set the digits, and plugging in his answer, the student pushes a button and the correct answer fails.

"The computer makes learning fun," said Krueger. "That's one of the reasons I built it." He said children get tired of teachers sitting them down and explaining to them how to add, subtract, etc.

"It took about two months of part time work to complete the computer." Krusger said. "Once design the program uper slate sup the most time. He built another computer which a friend is using in Des Plaines to help young students learn to read.

Here's help for home decorator

The homemaker can, if she will, look at her home through the eyes of an interior design-

When a designer visualizes a completed room in terms of the family and its interests he must see that all surfaces com-plement each other as ele-ments of the whole. While evously the walls are of prime

BECAUSE OF their posi-tion in the room, walls must be a natural background for the furnishings, points out Maso-nite Corp. The world's leading manufacturer of hardboard wall paneling.

Walls may be painted, papered, tiled or paneled. They may be plain, textured or woodgrained, depending on the mood being established.
They may be low medium or high cost. They may be easy or difficult to maintain, depending on activities and the materials used.

Familiar solutions in many situations have been paint and wallpaper. Today, how-ever, the demand for dis-tinction in wall treatments dic-tates more use of woodgrained

DISCRIMINATION how PISCRIMINATION, how-ever, is the watchword in the use of any wall covering. For-tunately, the various treat-ments can be used to com-plement each other in the same coom settles. The plement each other in the same room setting. The primary theme may require wide use of color; yet accents are needed to relieve the monotony and provide a feeling of harmony. Here, woodgrained paneling can be the designer's answer to the seeking homemaker.

March 31, 1970

A wide variety of materials, finishes, textures and styles confronts the homemaker in considering walls. Some already have been cited. Others include felt, tapestry, cork, exercior siding for unusual effects, peg board for its function as well as textured appearance and filigree hardboard or the state of the state o ance and filigree hardboard or translucent decorator panels for room dividers.

How to create a people-oriented room

Gone is the day of the con-ventional living room with a grouping of chairs and sofa around a fireplace or over-looking a picture window. To-day's contemporary living room is more apt to be "en-viromental" in its seating arrangement. A way to define environmental seating is, seat-ine that makes its center of in-ine that makes its center of ining that makes its center of inst PEOPLE!

Prefer less togetherness

The family man is changing his ideas on togetherness inside the home. He still wants space, and lots of it; but he wants the den, family room or rumpus room isolated from the rest of his living area.

This and other trends are evident from an extensive study of new home buyer preferences. Thousands were interviewed to determine future housing needs.

THERE IS a definite trend toward more formal living. The entry hall, formal living room and separate dining room are considered essential

AS FAR as house styles are incerned, there is a definite sire for variety.

In California, an extra large master bedroom is fast becom-ing a standard feature. New home buyers there also prefer fencing, underground utilities and concrete driveways over swimming pools as desired op-tions.

Almost 40 per cent of those interviewed considered three-car garages essential.

Space must function

Rooms can no longer afford to just sit there ... and do only one thing. As our personal share of the world's square footage dwindles, we have ar-rived at the age of multiple-function and dual-purposes.

Libraries, music rooms, guest rooms, parlors . . . all sound like relies of a forgotten sound like relies of a forgotten age to a generation so often starting married life in one room, and graduating to the bare essentials only as the family grows.

Today's spare room should be turnished half for the fami-ly, half for the guest, with not-so-obvious accumulation of necessities ... a desk to spread out work or sewing, seating for relaxed reading, good lighting, shelves for books and a com-fortable place to sleep.

If this sounds like a lot of furniture for what is usually one of the smaller rooms in the house, don't overlook the pos-sibility of wall-hung furniture.

Antique-in-a-Kit: to do yourself

Antiquing as a method of refinishing old furniture (or upainted furniture) is an old refinishing old furniture to upainted furniture) is an old technique that is enjoying a new craze. Instead of assem-hing the various materials yourself, they are now assem-bled for you in special kits. Not only are all the materials in-cluded but you are furnished with extremely easy-to-follow instructions

The big difference in antiquing is the use of an opaque base coat of paint. The grain is later simulated.

This is unlike the use of elear stains and varnishes where the original grain is allowed to show through.

RECAUSE OF this difference it is not necessary to re-move the original paint or var-nish. The antique finish is ap-plied right over the old finish and can also be used on metal, plaster, hardboard and other materials.

The kit offers the advantage of allowing the purchaser to know exactly what the finished result will be like. There is no mixing involved and a sample chart indicates the effect you will get

The sets are designed to give you a wide range of two-color combinations or a natural looking wood-grain effect. THE KIT will have at least two cans in it, sometimes three. The larger can will con-tain a base coat. This is opaque and is dull or satin finish. The base coat provides the proper color background. It can be white for an antique white look or it may be some deep color-such as blue or red.

The second and smaller can The second and smaller can contains, a glaze coat. This is translucent and the base color will show through it. The color can be made to vary by wiping off more or less of the glaze. The total look of the finish can also be affected by wiping off more glaze in some areas, al-lowing more to remain in oth-crs.

The base coat is brushed on and allowed to dry. Then the glaze is applied, also with a brush and while still wet it is wiped off with a piece of cheesecloth, also supplied. This leaves streaks of the glaze behind.

STEEL WOOL also is sometimes used for a final wiping, but caution is required. Shake out the steel wool to remove the fine, loose particles in it. Otherwise these will remain behind and make the fin-

Plexiglas acrylic sheets are newly available through glass dealers, hardware stores and paint, wallpaper and building supply outlets.

THE ACRYLIC sh

need no framing. Lightweight, with no sharp edges, they can be handled easily and safely. Clear and transparent, they resist weather and discoloration.

To glaze a storm door window opening, follow these instructions:

1, Purchase a .125-inch (%-inch) thick sheet in a size as close as possible to the storm door window opening. Keep in pansion.

2. If the sheet requires trimming to required size, use a sabre or hand jig saw with at least 14 teeth per lach. Guide the saw along a straight edge. A band saw may be used with at least 10 teeth per lach. A circular saw with at least 6 teeth remains a band in the saw of the saw of the saw with at least 6 teeth remains a band of the saw with at least 6 teeth and the saw of the saw with a least 10 teeth per lach is also ideal for straight cut-

Some good sink ideas

Do home remodeling plans include everything but the kitchen sink? Now something can be done about it, too.

Here are five suggestions from the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

1. Replace old sink with a two-or three-bowl type to multiply its simultaneous use.

2. Check faucets, and re-index if increase; if necessary. New models.

DOCTOR SAYS 'Spring fever' cure is simple

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

If you find yourself yawning a loi, stretching, sighing and suffering from general persenses but have no fever, you probably have "spring fever," in earlier times the underlying cause was thought to be thickening of the blood during winter.

We now know that no such thickening occurs. At any rate, at this time of the year the "disease" reaches epidemie proportions.

Some 50 to 75 years ago, willur and molasses was usulfur and molasses was the standard treatment. Since the condition is self-limited the remedy always worked.

PERHAPS THE best treat-ment is to get out of doors and watch the burgeoning of spring. Step up your exercise program, preferably by doing something you enjoy, whether it be golf or bird watching.

Incidentally, if your enjoy-ment of the outdoors is ham-pered by the increasing air pol-lution, add your voice to the growing demand for cleaner

Plan an indoor picnic featuring finger foods

How long has it been since you were on a picnic? So, why not nov? Warm weather and ants have long been associated with picnics but there are no rules against having one indoors. Broiled lamb ribets or barbequed pork kabobs are both easy to prepare entrees. Only a tossess adaid and a crusty bread would be needed to complete the meal.

BECAUSE LAMB RIBLETS are an inexpensive out, the best way to prepare them is to let them simper about an hour then brush with a honey-sweet sauce you can make yourself or a prepared sauce. Then place under the broiler until brown.

Another new innovation is Compliment for Indoor Pork Barbeque. It requires no additional ingredients or mixing and saves marinating, and, basting. All that is necessary to make Pork kabobs is the sauce and the kabob necessities such as pork cubes, onlons peppers and possibly small tomatoes.

Honey sweetens lamb riblets

Thread skewers alternating the pork, onions, peppers and tomatoes. Place in shallow baking dish. Pour Compliment over skewers.

Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake 20 minutes more or until meat is tender. Makes about 6 skewers.

Clever cooks disguise the left overs

A clever cook can serve left-overs in many interesting and glorious ways. The unimagina-tive cook will warm everyting up and serve it in the same old dreary manner. It is from this type of a cook that leftovers re-ceive their unattractive image.

One young mother of several small children called to ask for recipes made with left-over hard cooked Easter eggs, which this reader had in such abundance after all the Easter egg hunts were over. There are agg hunts were over. They are numerous and interesting the state of the such as the such course his huntrilionally

is a cool pale green that looks
most appetizing, particulary
when garnished with whipped cream and a whole pistachio.
And while the mouse looks elaborate, unflavored gelatin is or reliable a product that you just can't go wrong if you folloov recipe directions. Chill until farm, 15 to 30 minutes. In serve, earnish with small dollops of whipped cream and kumquat slices. Makes 5 cups; 20 to 28 servings. NOTE: If blender container will not hold 5 cups, do not add heavy cream to blender. After adding ice cubes, turn mixture into bowl and quickly beat in cream.

This is the basic technique for these blend and gel master-pieces: soften unflavored gelatin in cold liquid in the blender container; add boiling liquid, blend on low speed until the unflavored gelatin is dissolved. Add cream and the other ingredients as directed.

The ice cubes come as a sur-prise as they do indeed go into the blender for processing. The ice hastens the refrig-erator chilling action and the Min-Mousses reach perfect consistency, after blending, in 15 to 30 minutes chilling time.

THERE'S Raspberry Mini-Mousse, too, made with the frozen berries for con-venience, and kumquat, made from the little preserved fruit.

EAGLE'S MEAT LABELING POLICY IS CLEAR, SIMPLE AND HONEST!

Truth-in meat labeling at Eagle m the exact cut of meat inside. This is the policy we advocate and practice. Why is it important? Because in recent years the various names for cuts of meat have multiplied in their inventiveness and in their confusion. It has become almost standard supermarket practice to label cuts of most with names like "Breakfast Stoak," "T.V. Steak," "English cut Roast," etc., names which give shoppers no indication at all of what portion or primal cut the meat comes from At its worst, this prac-tice masks the naturally "toughor" portions of boof, in particular, bohind names which suggest better flavor and tenderness, with the result that shoppers often pay more for what is actually Round Stock because the meat has been cut in a slightly different way and cleverly re-named. At Eagle, a Round Stock is a Round Stock, and cleverly labeled as such. The way we see it, you should be able to expect simple honosty and directness in the labeling of meat, especially since the largest portion of your food dollar probably ages for meat purchases. We're protty sure you garee.

The second floor of Irving's home also geflects his injentity: He destineed neutral above and Ceilings to disquist the sharp angles under his gabed roof. A canopied bed dominates the room where Irving ded. Here you see his dressing gown, silk hat and died. Here you see his dressing gown, silk hat and bedroom of Irving's invalid brother, Ebeneger, Beyond that, the room belonging to his two nieses has a gay, floral carpet, a double sleigh bed and an ornamentation of the freplace. For other guests and servants, too, there was the "Pagodia" a three-slowy tower added 12 years after he Tagodia. The surrounding grounds complement the beauty of the house. A small lake with its with flow and adults was Irving's "Little Mediternmean." A sparkling waterfall leads to a, wandering stream that flows into the "Hiddon River. A casual stroll about the property affords- beautiful views of the fiver and of woods bordered by wild flowers. Yet, môst delightful of all, is the unique architectural style of Sunnyside itself, best described by the author as "a little old-fishioned stone manion," all made up of gabbe ends, and as full of angles and corners as an old cocked hat."
